

Dr Hugh Farrow Bishop, Executive Medical Director

After graduating from the University of Aberdeen in 1996, Hugh trained across Scotland and England, returning to Aberdeen as a Consultant Paediatric Oncologist in 2011.

He has held leadership roles across a range of specialties in NHS Grampian culminating in his appointment as Executive Medical Director in February 2025.

He was National Clinical Director of the Managed Service Network for Children and Young People's Cancer, National Clinical Lead for the Scottish Cancer Network, and is the Founding Chair of the Tessa Jowell Brain Cancer Mission Paediatric Academy.

Hugh is passionate about Equality, Diversity and Inclusion, and believes that the NHS is at its best when every profession is given equal respect and admiration.